

Source: <https://www.evolution-design.info/about/our-team>

NICOLE BUSCHOR

MANAGEMENT DIRECTOR

Nicole Buschor is our management director who views planning, coordinating and controlling through an architect's lens. Since joining Evolution Design in 2000 in the role as senior architect, Nicole has played an instrumental role in the structure and improvement of our internal operations and efficiencies, supporting our team and empowering us to deliver the best service to our clients.

Over the years, Nicole's skill for contracts and finance has enabled Evolution Design to deliver outstanding projects that bring value and joy to our customers, while her natural camaraderie and ability to motivate teams has ensured continued development of our own company culture and team spirit.

Nicole's passion for strategic project management means that she is always looking into how a more efficient workflow can lead to the better design and successful delivery of projects. By working closely with Evolution Design's executive director Stefan Camenzind, Nicole tailors and optimises the project management process for each project and ensures that we are able to deliver our project to the client's objectives on time and on budget. Nicole's analytical skills and working methods enable Evolution Design to manage projects proactively and successfully.

» By empowering our team and engaging everyone in what they're best at, we unlock the real strength of our company. Working remotely or in our inspiring offices in Zurich and London, as a team we are more creative, productive and efficient.